ETU

Etu Evans, is a celebrity shoe and accessories designer, style correspondent, and Founder of the Solesville Foundation; a global initiative which provides shoes and advocacy for victims of sexual abuse and trafficking. His designs have adorned Halle Berry, Sharon Stone, Queen Latifah, Cynthia Bailey, Michael B. Jordan and John Singleton, just to name a few. He is the Creative Director of Harlem World Magazine and host of The Republic of Style podcast. The New York Daily states "He's one of the hottest shoe designers in the business and has turned the world upside down on its' stiletto heel. Beyoncé bounces in his footwear, Tyra Banks says she's a fan and Lil Kim strapped on some boots for a sexy photo shoot." Footwear News has hailed Etu and his purple bottoms as, "the Prince of luxe footwear."
